Total war warhammer bretonnia building guide

This can be useful when you are able to trade with all the Breton factions, but when you confederate and lose trading partners, the resource buildings become less optimal. So, I have level III stables and barracks in Arden and Sticks, which are a long way from my current war with Woolf's elves; should I just demolish them and replace them with a chapel or garrison? Check the trading tab on the financial screen to see if your asset is worth trading. If you ignore the peasant economy, some configurations become less optimal because of the economic blow to farms. In this case, build industry-focused configurations. Unless the provincial capital does not have a port, in which case you will drive only the merchants crazy. EDIT: Added "Industry Max Support" and "Farming Max Support". Then demolish the support buildings and replace them with military recruitment and a church for the Lady of Financial Disgraces. I can post screenshots of my provinces if anyone is interested. Total War: WARHAMMER > Gameplay Discussions > TAA@ma rAA@szletei Building Guide (Bretonia) Building Guide (Bretonia) Hello, I'm currently at Turn 69, I'm playing Louen's campaign; a bit puzzled by the building system (I don't have a played TW from Rome I) regarding military buildings, should I focus on one type of unit (cavalry, infantry, etc.) in each province, and just demolish the rest, built by AI, and replace it with lucrative buildings? Megjegyzás: Ez CSAK spam, értelemhiányos, veszedelmes vagy illetlen tartalom. Ezen bejegyzés szerkesztése nem lehetséges. EDIT: Minor formatting changes. Page 2 21 comments All income configurations are sorted in descending order by income when searching for all technologies. At the beginning of the game some of the most important buildings are the ones that provide the most income. If you want to crash the economy, build level 3 farms and industry buildings in the province capitals. Screenshots are appreciated. So far, I have my Couronne tailored for cavalry eAAA IV tier building (not sure if I need upgraded pegasus & hippogriff cavalry right now) grand tournament, abbey; Parravon had top tier barracks built by AI when I confederated them, so I decided to dedicate it to infantry; Parravon also has trebuchet building, which I don't really use much in my army. However, keep in mind that true chivalry does not come from armies of peasants, but comes from armies of knights. This leaves you with 1 slot to build walls in to seal yourself inside your madhouse and destroy any invaders that have heretical views about economic prosperity. I have ~2.5 armies, and income of ~10k; can't really complain, but the slots taken by barracks and stables bother me: the thing is, as I figured out, I will be using global recruitment pool more often than local one (esp. later in the game, when chaos invades), so there is no point having tier III infantry and cavalry buildings in each and single province, right? Tilea is all money, as well as Marienburg. TL;DR: Bretonnia building guide/hints eAAA do I need some military buildings in every province? province?
